MARION, CRITTENDEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, MAY 14, 1908.

NUMBER 50

To the Members of the A. S. of E. of the State of Kentucky.

Believing that the members of the American Society of Equity in Kentucky are at heart loyal to the Society and are influenced only by such things as will benefit this Association and aid in the accomplishment of its great purpose, namely: The betterment of the condition of the agriculturalist, we are constrained to submit this letter to you with the hope that we will be able to satisfy every one who reads it that the delegates who assembled in Indianapolis in October last were actuated by no sinister or selfish motive, but only by a desire to advance the principles of the Society of Equity.

We notice with astonishment and regret that ever since the adjournment of the National Convention Mr. J. A. Everitt has industriously and persistently sought to poison the minds of all members of the Society who were not in attendance at the National Convention by glaring misrepresentations and unfounded statements which he has freely published in his paper "Up-to-Date Farming" which until January 1, 1908, was the National Official Organ of the A. S. of E.

In order that you may understand just what was done at the National Convention, and why it was done, it is only necessary to make a plain straight forward statement of the facts. The Kentucky delegation, some forty in number, composed of as good, true, upright, honest and fair minded men as live within the borders of old Kentucky left their home and their business to attend the National Convention at Indianapolis, and when they reached that city to the utter astonishment of most of delegates, they learned that the National Officers, including the president, Mr. Everitt, were at cross purposes and freely indulging in grave charges and counter charges against each other. We determined to take no part in these personal differences between the National Officers and, therefore, refrained from coming out in speech in favor of or against any of said officers, but determined to wait and ascertain the true state of facts and then act to the best interests of the Association.

The convention was called for Tuesday morning ten o'clock, on October 22, 1907, but on Monday night there was a caucus of the delegates, some meeting at the Linden, and others at Dennison hotel, and the delegates who had met at the Dennison then came around to the Linden and the assembly room of the latter being too small to accommodate the delegates, the caucus was, at the request of Mr. Everitt and upon motion of a Kentucky delegate, adjourned to the assembly hall of the Dennison hotel. This caucus had been in session but a short time until President Everitt sought to precipitate trouble by preferring charges before the caucus against all the other national officers and the national board of directors, and it became evident that censure and re-censure was going to be freely indulged in, and in order to keep these unpleasant and harmful matters out of convention a delegate from Kentucky moved the appointment of a grievance committee before whom these charges were to be made, and this motion prevailing, put an end to these discordant disputes between the national officers for that evening.

When the convention met and was organized on the following day the action of the caucus in the appointment of this grievance was endorsed and the work of the convention progressed, Mr. Everitt presiding, until all the committees were appointed and until the committee on credentials, and the committee on the order of business, made their reports, the committee on the order of business placed the election of officers as the last order of business and the delegates present being anxious to have a voice in the selection of our national officers, and many of them knowing that they could not remain through the entire session, a substitute was selected of officers immediately following the report of the committee on credentials and the seating of the delegates; this change in the order of business took place on Wednesday morning about 11 o'clock and the convention was disposed to proceed at once to the election of officers for the ensuing year, but at the request of a delegate who said that there was a self-appointed committee in conference with Mr. Everitt, who he felt sure would be able to make a report by 1:00 o'clock in the afternoon that would illuminate all chances of discord and hard feeling as a result of the election.

The convention then adjourned until one o'clock, at which time it convened for the afternoon business when the first thing that was done that afternoon was public announcement by Mr. Everitt, that after conference with his friends he had determined not to offer for re-election as president and would not accept the position; thereupon Mr. Tubbs, the National Secretary, announced that he would be a candidate for re-election. The delegates then, from a number of states, came to the Kentucky delegation and requested us to agree upon a man from this state for national president, pledging their support to any man agreed upon by us.

After a consultation, we agreed upon and put in nomination, Mr. C. M. Barnett, of Hartford, Ky., as the choice of the Kentucky delegation for national president. Mr. Wilson of Oklahoma, was then put in nomination representing the Everitt interest, and upon a secret ballot being taken Mr. Barnett received 199 delegate votes, and Mr. Wilson, (who was a stronger man than Everitt) received 38 votes; then upon motion of Mr. Wilson the election of Mr. Barnett was made unanimous, and then followed a manifestation of good will and fraternal love among the delegates not often seen outside of an old fashion revival. Thereupon, Mr. Everitt went voluntarily to Mr. Barnett extending his hand and pledged to him his support and pledged his devotion to the principles of Equity and his loyalty to the duly elected officers, and his pledge publicly made before the entire delegation there assembled being made without qualification or reservation on the part of Mr. Everitt so delighted the delegates that, notwithstanding a large majority were opposed to his re-election, upon motion of a Kentucky delegate that a rising vote of thanks be given Mr. Everitt for his magnanimous act and loyalty to the cause, was responded to by a unanimous rising vote, the delegates little dreaming that the man who for five years had been the national president of this association would so soon forget his solemn promise and turn to railing against the delegates at this convention and to denouncing the convention as illegal and its action revolutionary.

We here solemnly declare, that there has never, since the formation of the American government been a fairer convention and one freer from any desire to do an injustice to any one. The delegates were opposed to the national officers airing their grievances, or supposed grievances, against each other in the presence of the representatives of the daily press, who would so gladly have heralded it to the world that the A. S. of E. in national convention assembled had broken up in a row and was in the throes of dissolution and disintegration.

It was our firm conviction that the only way to save the American Society of Equity in its integrity was to clean out Augen Stables, and to elect an entire new set of officers.

At the meeting of the Kentucky State Union, held in Henderson, Ky., Jan. 9th, 1908, Mr. Everitt was given a seat upon the floor and was invited to make a public statement of his course since the adjournment of the national convention.

He was given all the time he desired, and he went into details as to his differences with the other national officers, and as to the action of the national convention. After Mr. Everitt concluded, W. E. Bourland, a delegate from Webster county, who was also a delegate to the national convention, was called upon for an account of his action at the national meeting, who responded in a plain, straight forward manner, and in detail as to the action of said convention and notwithstanding, a majority of the delegates went to the Henderson convention favorable to Mr. Everitt and feeling that he had been wronged at the Indianapolis convention, all went away satisfied that the national delegates acted wisely and well. And they went away further convinced that Mr. Everitt's devotion to the A. S. of E. ceased when Everitt's personal interest ended.

Mr. Everitt's course demonstrates that his devotion to the A. S. of E. has been purely a selfish one and that when the farmers whose purpose is to better their condition decided that their interests could be best subserved by putting some other man at the head of their national organization, then Mr. Everitt declared, and now declares, as he did at the State Convention in Henderson, that the American Society of Equity, under its present leadership, had departed from its true purpose and that he was no longer a member of the American Society of Equity.

We submit that if the principles of the American Society of Equity are not bigger than Mr. Everitt, or any other man, and that its affairs can only be managed by him, then the sooner we close up shop and turn ourselves over to the tender mercies of the trust the better it will be for all of us. But this is not true; the principles of the American Society of Equity will live and the association continue in its good work long after Mr. Everitt is dust and his memory forgotten.

We call upon all members of the American Society of Equity in Kentucky to rally to the support of our national Union and show their devotions to the principles of equity by spurning all who traduce our duly elected national officers.

One word, further: In response to Mr. Everitt's charge that the Kentucky delegation were concerned in having a Kentuckian elected national president, we desire to say that it is absolutely without foundation, for there was not a Kentucky delegate who considered himself qualified for the position of president, that wanted the place, or could have accepted it without great personal sacrifice; and we desire to state further that Mr. Barnett at first refused and finally, after being earnestly besought by his Kentucky convention, yielded reluctantly and consented to make the sacrifice for the sake of harmony and the good of the Association.

This letter is necessarily long, but but even now we have not been able to tell all that occurred at the national convention, but we feel sure that if every member of the American Society of Equity could have been in Indianapolis, and every member of Kentucky could have been at Henderson they would not hesitate or falter in their loyalty or devotion to our state and national officers.

We are, Fraternally Yours,
BEN WATSON,
W. E. BOURLAND,
THOS. T. BARRETT, Committee.

Done by order of the Kentucky State Board of the American Society of Equity, January 23, 1908.

Judge Greer Dead.

W. D. Greer died at his home in Paducah, Sunday morning last, at 4:20 in his seventy-fourth year. He was born at Fredonia and lived there and at Salem, Smithland and Paducah all his life. His first wife was a sister to Isaac Lindley of Salem. He was well known to many of our people on account of his connection with the Mountain, Lead, Zinc, and Spar Co., which he organized and which company had leases on the Crittenden Springs tract, until recently.

Twenty-two Lyon Farmers Charged With Arson, Brought to Marion.

Sheriff Sam Cash, of Lyon county, and Marshall William McCollum, of Kuttawa, arrived here with twenty-two prisoners last Wednesday at 3:32 o'clock. The men are charged with complicity in the burning of the Bennett Bros.' factory at Dyersburg Monday night February 3, and Cardin's factory, at View, Saturday night, February 5.

roac surgeon with Dr. Reynolds of Blackford and Wolfe of this city did all they could to relieve his sufferings. He did not rally from the shock of the accident and no operation was performed. He lived till 11 o'clock. The remains were taken to Bowling Green for interment.

Mrs. Reid Dead.

Mr. George W. Stone received a message Wednesday morning from Kelsey announcing the death of Mrs. Mary Reid, wife of Rev. W. T. Reid, and mother of Mrs. George W. Stone, of this city. Mrs. Reid had been an invalid for long time and unable to leave her bed and her death has been expected for months past. Her vitality has surprised her family and her physician.

As we go to press no funeral arrangements have been made known, but we think the interment will most likely occur at Glenn's Chapel today.

Lora Corum Dead at Smithland.

Mrs. W. D. Bishop, wife of the Sheriff of Livingston county, died at Smithland after a two weeks' illness. Her death was unexpected. Besides her husband she is survived by a four-year-old son.

Mrs. Bishop was before her marriage Miss Lora Corum daughter of Samuel Corum former Jailer of Crittenden county. Many of our citizens remember her as a school girl and young lady here 25 years ago.

John W. Lamb and his wife attended the burial at the Love Chapel cemetery near Joy in Livingston Co., Wednesday May 6th.

Mrs. Bishop was a niece of Mrs. Lamb, who is her mother's sister, both having been Franklin's before marriage and related to the large family of that name in this county and Livingston.

Graduating Class.

The graduates this year departed from the usual method of orations by each member of the class, instead of this the common school class gave two short plays, on the "Heir of Mt. Vernon" and "The Contest of Nations" a cantata.

Tired nerves, with that no ambition feeling that is commonly felt in the spring or early summer, can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. One will absolutely note a changed feeling within 4 hours after beginning to take the Restorative. The bowels get sluggish in the winter-time, the circulation often slows up, the kidneys are inactive, and even the heart in many cases grow decidedly weaker. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is recognized everywhere as a genuine tonic to these vital organs. It builds up and strengthens the worn-out weakened nerves, it sharpens the failing appetite, and universally aids digestion. It always quickly brings renewed strength, life, vigor, and ambition. Try it and be convinced. Sold by Jas. H. Orme.

A New Preparation.

Chamberlain's Liniment is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflammatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invariably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lamé back, lame shoulder, and stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the affected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is relieved by this liniment. For sale by J. H. Orme.

THE LIVERPOOL END OF IT.

I learn that no announcement was made, as had been promised, in England, selling the import duty on tobacco for the current. The publication was, it seems, postponed until this week. After the publication it is in order to expect good news from Manager Elliott. It will be remembered he was confident he would be able to close out the remaining four factories of the 1906 tobacco after the publication of the budget ensuing twelve months. From the best information obtainable I have very serious doubts if any reduction will be made in the present duties. Nevertheless a decision one way or the other will bring things to a head—and that decision cannot be postponed longer than a few days now.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain state of health.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going directly to the stomach nerves alone brought that success and it is to them we owe the fact that we can put out that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishment were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, blemishes, bad breath, etc., in complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

ACT QUICKLY

Delay Has Been Dangerous In Marion.

Do the right thing at the right time.

Act quickly in time of danger. Backache is kidney danger. Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly. Cure all distressing, dangerous kidney illa.

Plenty of evidence to prove this.

Aaron, Koltinsky, living on cottage St., Princeton, Ky., says: Doan's Kidney Pills gave me prompt relief from a bad attack of backache about two years ago. There were sharp twings thru my loins, but I did not think it was serious at first thinking it would wear away, but instead it worse until I could hardly get about. After suffering for some time I took many remedies, but I received no relief until Doan's Kidney Pill came to my attention and I procured a box. They brought about a marked improvement in my condition and by the time I had taken the contents of the box I was entirely cured.

I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pill as the best kidney remedy on the market.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Rooster Kills Baby.

Nashville, Tenn., May 7.—Spurred in the head and killed by a rooster was the extraordinary fate of the 15-months-old baby, Maxie Crockett, Jr., of Lewisburg, Tenn., a few days ago. The child was out in the yard running after chickens, when he fell, and before he could get up he was attacked by a rooster. The rooster drove his spur thru the child's skull, death resulting in a short time.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.

Hyomei gives Relief in Ten Minutes.

Cures Over Night.

Everybody knows, or ought to know, that Hyomei is recognized by scientists as the specific for Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Hay Fever, but there are a great many people who do not know that Hyomei will cure a cough or a cold in less than twenty four hours.

But everyone should know that the soothing, balm and antiseptic air of Hyomei when breathed over the raw and inflamed membrane of the nose and throat will instantly allay the inflammation, and will effect a prompt cure.

Complete Hyomei outfit, including inhaler, costs only $1.00 at Haynes & Taylor, extra bottles, if afterwards needed, will cost only 50 cents.

Joseph M. Harbaugh, dredge, Neb., writes: "I have used your Hyomei in my family for two years or more, and find it one of the best remedies we ever used for a cold or sore throat. We find that it gives quick relief in cases of catarrh."

Worked Wonders.

Mrs. C. P. Wiggins, Lexington, Ky., says: "I gave my fowls Bourbon Poultry Cure when they were sick and it certainly worked wonders.

Saved the Girl but Loses his Life in Doing It.

Cecil Dills, a young man of eighteen, and a son of Jos. Dills, of this city, was drowned in the Kentucky river at Booneboro, nine miles from here, Sunday afternoon under very tragic circumstances, says a Winchester special.

He was taking Miss Fannie Sue Bush for a ride and attempted to go from Ford to Booneboro along the river road, which had been badly washed by the recent high water.

At one of the narrowest points the horse shied at a log and sprang into the river, carrying buggy and occupants with it.

Young Dills kept the young lady up until a Mr. Easter on the other side of the river reached them in a skiff. As soon as Miss Bush was safe Dills sank and has not been seen since. The river is being dragged to recover the body, but it is so high that little hopes are entertained of success. Miss Bush was uninjured save by nervous shock. The horse was drowned.

TO MAKE GOLD IN FUTURE

Inventor Says he has Process to Turn Out $100,000,000 Annually.

Has the dream of the alchemist of old been realized in the dawn of the twentieth century? asks the Chicago Record-Herald. Eighteen months hence Radolph M. Hunter says he will be manufacturing 24-carat gold at the rate of $100,000,000 annually.

Transmutation of silver and base metals into gold is his secret, and he declares he can produce the finer metal in duality to defy government experts as to its origin, and in quantity to keep the Philadelphia mint busy the year round.

Mr. Hunter is in Chicago attending to the final details of getting a huge plant at Chicago into operation.

Behind rock walls, without windows and with but a single door to the turreted and feudal-like castle which is to house a half million dollars' worth of delicately tuned machinery, this modern wizard promises to revolutionize the gold crop of the world.

snake whips and thorns," or "burned his barn." We do, however, call attention to the fact that the Governor does exonerate the Society of Equity from these charges, and has charged them directly against us who hold the offices in this association. Our plea is not guilty, and unless the Governor apologizes for this statement, we call upon him publicly for his proof. With the people who know us, we do not feel it necessary to do more than spur this charge as the product of an inflamed mind.

As to the charge that "the two trusts are working together," our simple response is that there is no foundation in fact for this or any similar statement. The space allotted to us in this article does not permit us to introduce all of the evidence necessary to disprove this statement, were it incumbent upon us to disprove an unsupported charge, but it is so startling and preposterous, and with the people of Kentucky will receive so little consideration, that we do not deem it necessary to do more than to thus publicly brand it as untrue and unwarranted. The facts and evidences are ready, if desired, to substantiate this statement. As to the personal charge made against the officers of the Burley Tobacco Society, together with the other officers of the various associations, we simply answer for ourselves. We regret exceedingly that the Governor of Kentucky should so far forget himself in the excitement of the moment to express or even harbor any thought that the officers of this society should be so accused. We believe that the Governor will withdraw this charge. He should publicly apologize for making it. Even a decent respect for ourselves and our standing in this section of Kentucky prevents us from so far debasing ourselves as to enter into a discussion of this charge, as to whether or not we have become "intoxicated with the love of power" or "that we do not care that this is a free country," or "we do not care that the constitution guarantees liberty," or that we are determined that every man in their district shall obey their rule and the rule of terror and fear. They kill the poor, they murder the poor sonal points or the millionaire would not have chosen her. And it is safe to say that morally she is his equal if not his superior.

There is no stooping about it. They were on a level, or, if anything, the hired girl was just a little above the millionaire.

All of us in America who amount to anything are hired people.

No doubt this millionaire is a hired man in charge of some big corporation.

Roosevelt is a hired man.

And we are all out servants and congressmen and diplomats—servants in the pay of the people.

And, fellow citizens,

One of the things that are the matter with this country is the growing tendency to look down on the man who works with his hands or the woman who works with her hands.

The tendency is devilish and dangerous.

Let us learn again that the hands that are seared by honest toll bear wounds as honorable as those received in battle. The overalls and the gingham aprons of labor are as honorable as and vastly more useful than all the mortal trappings and uniforms of war.

Let us learn again that the doctrine of the dignity of labor is fundamental to the republic.

And so we say farewell for the hired girl and the hired man, these two who loved each other for what they were and paid no attention to the accidents of fortune!

ACROSS THE DESERT

The Funny Things One Sees in

By
MARSHALL P. WILDER

(Copyright by Joseph B. Bowles.)

In Oklahoma we were stalled for a day in a town called Shawnee. The supply on our dinner gave out and at this town we had our first experience with local restaurants. We went to the "New England Home Restaurant," so-called. We didn't dare sit down, for fear we'd never get loose again. The sandwiches were made of bread at least two and a half inches thick with a piece of cold fried beefsteak between.

We took a chance at the real thing in hot tommy's one day. A little boy was selling them at one of the stations. Well, after the first bite, mine fell out of the window. A lean and melancholy dog made a dive for it, gave a sniff and, with a disappointed look, sneaked away, and I didn't blame him. He looked hungry, too.

At one of those little prairie towns that seem to actually leap out of space, they come so suddenly into view, we found our cow in a shed by the station. We made quite a stop here and everyone got out. Several of the passengers wished to follow our custom and buy some milk, and some adventurous ones even essayed the unaccustomed feat of milking her themselves. I was offered the chance to try, but refused, having some recollections of my first and last attempt to milk.

It was on my uncle's farm up in New York State and I was going to do everything that a cow that she should desire to eat. I was along my accouched way. After a few tender years, and with the aid of force that usually accouches that stage of life, I entered the barn for my first lesson, with the utmost nonchalance, and gaily hummed a dairy tune. I don't remember how I came out, but I think it was by the elevated. When I first looked at the cow she was all peace and contentment, but when she saw me she looked disinterested, and I knew there was a kick coming. She stopped chewing her cud and let it run down the loop—then, after a few minutes, she rang it up again, having decided upon her line of action. Later I discovered that I was on the line, and very near the transmitter.

At the aforementioned Shawnee we began to get some entertainment from our misfortunes. A young man from California, one of those serious fellows, with a face like a deacon, but a fund of humor within, wrote out telegrams containing the most airy flights of imagination, and showed them to the anxious and perspiring passengers, who spent their time pretty equally between swearing at the management of the road and making the poor conductor's life miserable.

One of these telegrams was shown to me. It stated that the herd of elephants belonging to Ringling Bros.

Wrote Telegrams Containing Airy Flights of Imagination.

circus, that was stalled 40 miles away, were to be brought over and take the passengers on their backs across the washouts, where another train would meet them.

Looking around to discover the author of this delicious fiction I was met by a preternaturally solemn glance and a comprehensive wink.

After that we pouted our energies, and when I think of what we made that trainful of passengers believe, not to mention the several other trains we were always meeting, for we were generally stalled seven and eight deep, I am astonished at the credulity of human nature.

We devised one telegram about a number of prairie schooners that were to come over the hills and take us by old Spanish trails far from the washouts. My serious friend showed the message, very secretly, to an excitable little German, who evidently belonged to the Ueberle Child company, for he had about a baker's dozen of small children, and a gentle, childlike faith that was truly touching.

We assured him that the conductor could let only a few in on this exceptional opportunity, as it would be impossible to take all the passengers. It would be necessary to secure tickets in order to get places, and he'd better do it now—and not let the conductor put him off—just insist.

In great excitement the little man flew to the poor, distracted conductor, and asked him mysteriously for tickets for himself and family.

"Tickets—what tickets?" demanded that long-suffering man.

"Ah, you know—you needn't fool me—I know all about it, ma'am!" wagging a knowing finger in front of his nose.

"I know that you must be crazy. I don't know anything about any extra tickets."

"Dot's all right. You don't want to led on, but I had been told. I wish to get tickets for dose bairle vagonas—vayat."

"You're crazy," bellowed the exasperated conductor, to our unholy joy. "Who'n Sam Hill told you anything about prairie wagons? You've been out in the sun too long, Dutchy; go to bed and put ice on your head."

The monotony of our trip was further varied by the arrival at one station of a lady of the peroxide tint of blonde, who smuggled in a small monkey and a large-sized flask. The monkey was hidden beneath the berth, so she would not have to put him in the baggage car.

The greatest excitement ensued: nightgown and lingerie (I trust I use the right word) were in great evidence. Everyone asked everyone else what the trouble was, but none seemed to know.

Finally the mystery was solved.

The blonde lady pleaded on her knees in very maudlin accents that the hard-hearted conductor would not send her precious pet to the baggage car, but he was obdurate, and poor Chico was banished to the accompaniment of his mistress' sobs.

At El Paso we were stalled all one Sunday, but with the expectation of leaving every moment. A bull fight was on, over in Mexico, just across the river, but we dared not go for fear of being left by our train.

From El Paso we kept north across the arid table lands, the low hills, like crumpled, rusty tin, lying along the horizon. They are treasure houses of copper, these hills, and, every few miles, a mine opening may be seen perched high up on hillside, whose every action called forth a caution or a reprimand from the mother.

"Nita, darling!" In a mincing, elegant tone, and quite piano; "my precious sweetheart"—then sforsando—crescendo fortissimo—"You little vixen—stop that, or I'll break your neck!"

An Australian couple who were returning home by way of San Francisco, after having come to America by way of England, had the next section.

She had talented Leslie Carter, hair—

deeply, darkly, beautifully red; but after all, good Jesuit hair—the roots justified the ends. She was not at all pleased with America—oh, dear, no!—and constantly aired her impressions in a strident voice, and with a strong cockney accent. She thought America a "shocking place"—and very much overrated—one she never cared to see "again." And the railroad service—"the hidea of dragging them all over the country and cheating them out of the Grand Canyon—why, it was downright dishonest!"

The desert showed me several of her capricious moods, for presently we were treated to a most perfect mirage. Apparently a lake or broad river in the desert, with little islets and rocks mirrored in the most beautiful, cool and wettish looking water imaginable.

Fort Yuma claims the distinction of being the hottest place in the union. A story is told of a soldier who lived there, and died. The night after his death his spirit appeared to some of his comrades at their camp fire. They asked him what he wanted, and he said "Hades was so much colder than Yuma he had come back for his blanket."

It certainly lived up to its reputation the day we were there.

A number of Indians were seated by the platform displaying articles of handwork for sale. They object strenuously to being photographed—thinking the camera has the evil eye, and while it takes their portrait will also steal away their soul.

However, these scruples can be overcome at the rate of 50 cents a scuffle. Who says the commercial instinct lurks not in the breast of the Indian?

One old woman, who was said to be a hundred and four years old, covered her head with her blanket when I pointed my camera at her. For her entertainment I did a little sleight-of-hand work, making the pass with a quarter, pretending to swallow it, then picking it off her blanket, finally rubbed it into my trouser leg, and made it disappear entirely.

I only succeeded in frightening the poor old creature almost to death. She clasped her hands in fear, made the sign of the cross, crooked her fingers to avert the evil eye, and, pointing to me, put her fingers to her head like horns, indicating that I was a gentleman extremely well-known but of unsavory reputation.

Leaving these interesting remnants of the great race that once owned the land, we continued upon our sadly interrupted journey.

Turning fiercely, the man snarled at her and snorted:

"Well, they charge ten cents, but it ain't worth a d—m!"

"Washouts on the road?" was the word when we returned to the train, and we must be switched south at Newton, Kan. We had visions of the Grand Canyon receding into the future and darker ones of spending we knew not how many days on the trail. So we looked about us to see what manner of people were to be our traveling companions. They were certainly varied.

Back of us was an old Irish woman—the pathetic sort that are peculiar to County Down. She would confide her story in a plaintive little monotone to everyone.

"To me daughter," she explained, "God knows I want some few days of sunshine before I go intirely. I'm not strong, and I ate nothing at all, yet I wonder what I live on. I've had nothing the past three days but eight bottles of Kummys, four bottles of wine and a box of crackers. Think of that, now—just nothing at all."

She went to one of the eating houses along the way and, not knowing they would charge her for a full meal, she had on, but I had been told, I wish to get tickets for those bairle vagonas—vayat."

"You're crazy," bellowed the exasperated conductor, to our unholy joy. "Who'n Sam Hill told you anything about prairie wagons? You've been out in the sun too long, Dutchy; go to bed and put ice on your head."

The monotony of our trip was further varied by the arrival at one sta-

at one of the tables and ordered a cup of tea and a roll. Her indignation, when charged 75 cents, was sublime. It took the cashier, four waitresses and the proprietor to explain that she should have gone to the counter. But of no avail. The blood of County Down was at white heat. She raved like a mad woman. Finally the cashier offered to take 60 cents—that was allowing 15 cents for the rest of the dinner.

Farther down the car was a world-famous woman, the kind who affects an English accent and uses a lorgnette. She was traveling with her small daughter and maid. The maid was evidently her most treasured possession, for she displayed the greatest anxiety on her account, ceaselessly asking everyone the same question: Had they seen her Abigail? The small daughter was a bright, restless child, whose every action called forth a caution or a reprimand from the mother.

"Nita, darling!" In a mincing, elegant tone, and quite piano; "my precious sweetheart"—then sforsando—crescendo fortissimo—"You little vixen—stop that, or I'll break your neck!"

An Australian couple who were returning home by way of San Francisco, after having come to America by way of England, had the next section.

She had talented Leslie Carter, hair—

deeply, darkly, beautifully red; but after all, good Jesuit hair—the roots justified the ends. She was not at all pleased with America—oh, dear, no!—and constantly aired her impressions in a strident voice, and with a strong cockney accent. She thought America a "shocking place"—and very much overrated—one she never cared to see "again." And the railroad service—"the hidea of dragging them all over the country and cheating them out of the Grand Canyon—why, it was downright dishonest!"

The desert showed me several of her capricious moods, for presently we were treated to a most perfect mirage. Apparently a lake or broad river in the desert, with little islets and rocks mirrored in the most beautiful, cool and wettish looking water imaginable.

Fort Yuma claims the distinction of being the hottest place in the union. A story is told of a soldier who lived there, and died. The night after his death his spirit appeared to some of his comrades at their camp fire. They asked him what he wanted, and he said "Hades was so much colder than Yuma he had come back for his blanket."

It certainly lived up to its reputation the day we were there.

A number of Indians were seated by the platform displaying articles of handwork for sale. They object strenuously to being photographed—thinking the camera has the evil eye, and while it takes their portrait will also steal away their soul.

The First Presidency of Grover Cleveland

His Inauguration In March, 1885, His Marriage to Miss Frances Folsom, His Removals For "Offensive Partisanship," His "Tariff For Revenue Only" Plan and Two Presidential Campaigns.

ACCOMPANIED by his brother and sister, Grover Cleveland slipped quietly into Washington March 2, 1885, and on the 4th was inaugurated as president of the United States, succeeding Chester Alan Arthur. Twenty-eight years had passed since a Democrat had taken the oath of office as president. Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, the president's younger sister, was mistress of the White House and therefore "first lady of the land" during the first fifteen months of the administration. During this period rumors as of the captured flags should originate with congress. Since then many flags have been returned.

President Cleveland in his message to congress in December, 1887, enunciated his celebrated proposition of "tariff for revenue only." This was the most notable incident of his first term in office. The message, submitted on the eve of the presidential nominations of 1888, amazed the nation by its bold stand against the so-called protective tariff. Mr. Cleveland was known to be in a willing mood for renomination. His fearlessness in thus daring to to a White House bride flew fast and alienated that large wing of the Democratic party which believed in a high tariff for the support of American industry.

Mr. Cleveland received the Democratic nomination for president in 1888, but was defeated in the election by Benjamin Harrison of Indiana. Many Democrats attributed his defeat to his tariff message of 1887. After Mr. Harrison's election and the consequent tirade of criticism from members of the president's own party Mr. Cleveland sent for the speaker of the house of representatives, John G. Carlisle, a Democrat, and said to him, "If every other man in the country abandons this issue, I shall stick to it."

According to the last message of his term he "stuck to" his stand on the tariff problem, urging congress in 1889-90 to enact laws in line with his suggestions of the winter before.

Cleveland retired to private life March 4, 1889, and settled in New York city for the practice of the law.

A Californian's Luck.

"The luckiest day of my life was when I bought a box of Bucklin's Arnica Salve," writes Charles F. Budahn, of Tracy, California. "Two 25c. boxes cured me of an annoying case of itching piles, which had troubled me for years and yielded to no other treatment." Sold under guarantee at Jas. H. Orme and Haynes & Taylor's drug store.

Celebrates his 78th Birthday.

On May the 5th a large crowd of relatives and friends gathered at the home of John Deboe to celebrate his 78th birthday. A sumptuous feast was spread and partaken of, and enjoyed to the fullest extent by those present.

Mr. Deboe lives 3 miles south of Marion and is well known. He was the recipient of several nice and useful presents, and altho' he is nearing the four score years we hope he will see many happy returns of the day.

Letter From Washington.

Seattle, Wash., April 30, 1908
Mr. W. H. Brigham.

Marion, Ky.

Dear Friend:—I was pleased to have your letter. You write me occasionally but with the exception of his letters I have not heard much from the old home for many years. It has been eighteen years since I left the community and nine years since I set foot in Kentucky at all. I am now 38 years old. I hardly realize it as I still feel like a boy.

I have had many trials and interesting experiences since leaving home. I have traveled up and down the Atlantic Coast from Boston to Virginia and the Pacific Coast from the Arctic region to Mexico. I have lived in mining camps and in the finest hotels. I have been broke and have made as high as $2,000.00 a day.

When I first came to Seattle there were 75,000 people here, now there are 275,000. It is today a big bustling modern American city, growing faster than any city ever grew.

The state of Washington is a big state. It has a wide stretch of barren sage brush desert prairie. That is the part your Crittenden county people have gone to. They are irrigating the desert and making it blossom like a rose garden, it is very rich. The climate in that section does not differ much from Kentucky a little less winter perhaps. Then across the center of the state from north to south is a chain of high mountains, rough rocky and rugged, many of them covered with perpetual snow. I can look out of my bedroom window any of the year when it is clear and see in one direction Mount Rainier, the highest mountain in North America 14,400 feet high covered with perpetual snow and ice the year round, and a gorgeous and beautiful sight.

Looking out in another direction I have a sweeping view across the waters of Puget Sound, a great Salt Sea, and arm of the Pacific ocean which extends into the land and winds in a circuitous course inland for 250 miles. Into these waters comes the greatest ships that sail the seas bearing the commerce of the world. Also the U. S. navy succeed the first time use Herbine and you will get instant relief. The greatest liver regulator. A positive cure for constipation, dyspepsia, malaria, chills and all liver complaints. Mr. C. C. Emory, Tex., writes: "My wife has been using Herbine for herself and children for five years. It is a sure cure for constipation and malaria fever which is substantiated by what it has done for my family."

OLD COUNTRY DAIRY BUTTER.

Is superior to the best creamery butter, because I control the entire process of production from the cow to the finished butter, while the creamery butter maker has to make butter from milk of many different herds, also because it is made to suit the consumer. My butter is for others to eat, and it is to my interest to make it suit them.

You may have been accustomed to sweet cream butter; if so, you probably like that best, or you may have become used to eating butter made from very ripe cream and not worked much, causing it to have a decided taste.

Or you may like little or no salt, or light color, or high color. But all this does not matter. It is not the province of the butter maker to try to educate the tastes of people who buy butter, but rather to cater to their tastes when he finds out what they are. I want to make OLD COUNTRY DAIRY BUTTER to suit my customers, and I do make it clean, pure and good.

PRICE CURRENT.

Butter 20 cents per pound. Cream 20 cents per qt. Sweet Milk 20 cents per gallon. Butter Milk 10 per gal.
